Academic Positions	Postdoctoral Fellow, the Martin Buber Society of Fellows Hebrew University, Jerusalem	2018-2022
	Lecturer, Philosophy and Literature Initiative, Stanford Philosophy Department	2017-2018
	Postdoctoral Fellow, McCoy Family Center for Ethics in Society, Stanford University	2015-2017
Education	Ph.D. in Philosophy, Harvard University	June 2015
	Dissertation: "Loving, Valuing, Regretting, and Being Oneself" My dissertation examines facets of the rationality of attachment, including the rationality of love, valuation, regret, and loss. In the first part, I explain how one might be rationally attached to a particular as such. In the second, I give an account of rational regret, according to which one's regret and sense of loss reflect one's attachments. The two accounts dissolve a range of puzzles that result, I argue, from the conflation of distinct kinds of attachment-related reasons. Committee Chair: T. M. Scanlon Qualifying Paper: "Justice and the End of Society" (2011) Advisor: T. M. Scanlon A.B. in Philosophy, The Hebrew University of Jerusalem	2007
